President Puts Ban on the

SENATE ALSO ADOPTED FARM BILL WITH ITS "DRY" RIDER

Which Prohibits Sale of All Intoxicants After July 1.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Sept. 7.—Nation-wide prohibition was a step nearer today as the result of the adoption by the senate last night of the emergency agricultural appropriation bill with its "dry" legislative rider and an amendment by the food administration that President Wilson would exercise his war-time authority to prohibit the manufacture of beer after next December 1. Under the legislation enacted by the senate, the manufacture of both beer and wine would be prohibited after next May 1 until the American troops are demobilized after the war, and the sale of all intoxicants for beverage purposes would be prohibited after July 1. Under the president's order stopping the manufacture of beer after December 1, will be only intoxicating liquor which can be manufactured in the United States after that date, the distilling of whiskey having been prohibited last year as a food conservation measure.

The emergency agricultural bill has been sent back to the house, which prohibition will ask for a conference to compose the difference with the senate. Prohibition leaders, however, expect the house to agree to the prohibition rider so that it cannot be changed by the senate and house managers when they take up disputed sections of the appropriation measure.

On July 3 brewers were notified by the fuel administration that their coal consumption would be reduced by 50 per cent, pending the period of exhaustion of materials that they had in process, and were given preliminary warning.

LICKING COUNTY'S W. S. S. QUOTA WILL BE PASSED WHEN 44,000 MORE $5 STAMPS ARE PURCHASED

The sale of 44,000 more War Savings Stamps at the September price, $4.20, will put Licking county "over the top" along with eight other Ohio counties which have already sold their entire year's quota.

This week's sale of stamps in Licking county is the largest of the year, except that of the week of July 4. The cash sales this week are $76,986, over three times the weekly quota. The sales for the week of July 4 were $53,541.

This week's sales bring the grand total up to $1,054,353, or within $181,327 of the goal. The postoffice sales amount to $32,352, the bank sales, $11,647.

The two joint-stock banks and the Granville bank's sales are included in the Franklin National Bank's report and the Park National sold $8,326 instead of $4,326, but is credited with the latter figure as $4,000 worth of the stamps are included in the postoffice figures. The week's sales:

Newark Trust Company	$ 8,346
Franklin National Bank	11,322
Park National	1,326

WITHDRAWAL OF GERMANS IS A FULL RETREAT

On a 100 Mile Front Says
Gen. March in His Statement

IN WHICH HE GIVES RESUME OF THE ALLIED ACTIVITIES

New Division Has Been Organized At Camp
Sherman.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Sept. 7.—Characterizing the German retrograde movement as a "general retreat" on a 100-mile front from Arras to near Rheims, General March in his weekly statement today pointed out that the German lines now are 60 miles from the French capital at their nearest point as compared with 40 miles as late as July 15.

The enemy's retreat was forced primarily, General March said, by two operations. The first was that of the British on the Arras-Peronne front and the other was the advance of the Franco-American troops across the Soissons plateau.

The Hindenburg line is now only ten miles away from the advancing allies at its farthest sector.

Official reports to the department show that the Franco-Americans had reached the Aisne on a ten-mile front last night while the French and American troops further north were within ten miles of St. Quentin.

General Pershing has sent to the department a report of minor casualties hitherto unreported of their trivial character. "They total 20,000 up to August 20, most of them being men who were so slightly wounded that they were returned to the ranks within a few days."

In connection with this announcement General March disclosed that:

GEO. B. MARTIN, ATTORNEY WILL SUCCEED JAMES

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 7.—Governor A. O. Stanley announced his decision to appoint George Brown Martin, an attorney of Cattselsburg, to fill the unexpired term of the late United States Senator John M. James, ending March 4, next. Governor Stanley himself is the party nominee for the full term to which Senator James was nominated at the state wide primary last month.

Mr. Martin is 42 years old, a son of a former state senator and is credited with being an advocate of woman suffrage and in sympathy with the war aims of President Wilson.

WEATHER FOR WEEK

Washington, Sept. 7.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday issued by the weather bureau today:

Ohio valley and Tennessee: Some slight prospect of showers Monday or Monday night in the Ohio valley; otherwise generally fair remainder of week; heavy normal temperatures.

Great Lakes region: Showers about Monday in upper lakes and Monday night or Tuesday in lower lakes followed by fair remainder of week. Cooler Tuesday in upper lakes followed by return to normal temperatures.

The sale of 44,000 War Savings Stamps will complete the job so far as Licking county is concerned. That means the purchase of one more $5 stamp by about half of the people of the county. It means that just a little more effort will put Licking county in the victory class.

The Fourth Liberty Loan will soon arrive. The War Savings committee hopes to reach the W.S.S. quota before the next Liberty bonds are put on the market. Buy W.S.S. now and help to push Licking over the top.

British, French and American Forces Gained Important New Ground On the Line From Aisne to West of Cambrai

AMERICAN TROOPS CHEERED AS THEY LAND IN ITALY;
SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS SUPPLY THEM WITH DAINTIES

American troops with their trucks in Italy, above, and Italian officer and girl giving U. S. boys cigarettes. The entire populace went wild with enthusiasm when the first American troops landed in Italy to help the Italian and other allied forces on that front. Soldiers and civilians passed cigarettes and dainties among the soldiers. Though photo shows part of the long trainloads of these trucks and the lower picture shows an Italian officer and girl giving the American soldiers and applying them with smokes and cabbages. What difference if most of the new arrivals and the thousands who received them couldn't understand each other. The spirit was there.

LONDON SEES NEW PHASE IN THE FUTURE

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, Sept. 7.—Public interest today is quite equally divided between the unbroken advance of the allied armies and the apparent signs that the German people are in a state of nervous anxiety bordering on demoralization. More editorial space is given here recently to future events than the retreat of the German army. The belief that something like a panic has seized the German populace is not based upon stories from neutral sources, which have raised false hopes in the past, but upon the utterances of the leaders in the German nation and the appeals of German "reformers" to the public to keep its head, while they themselves admit the seriousness of the military situation.

The emperor's bold vein of assurance, Chancellor von Hertling's franchise speech, General Ludendorff's strident order, and above all Field Marshal von Hindenburg's proclamation are cited as manifest efforts to check the death of the German spirit, which is contained in the German people's mind. In short it is declared that the German people and perhaps also the military chiefs evidently are greatly disturbed by recent events.

The interest of military commentators, while not ignoring the continued British progress, centers chiefly on the important French successes on the southern end of the line of attack. The stiffening of the enemy's resistance on this front is noted and the difficult operations are recognized.

The Times referring to the Franco-American arrivals before "the great pivotal position of the enemy in France" which the forest of St. Gobain forms the climax of a frontal attack in this forest is out of the question and now as last year the French doubtless prefer to go round but have some very difficult ground to cover before they are on the Chemin des Dames.

BERLIN SAYS THEY REPULSED ATTACKS BY AMERICANS

(Associated Press Telegram)
Berlin, Sept. 7, via London.—On the heights northeast of Fismes in the Vesle river region, the German forces yesterday repulsed renewed attacks by the Americans, says the official statement issued today by German army headquarters.

On the Somme and Oise rivers the enemy followed the Germans retreating by way of Ham and Chauny and during the evening was engaged in fighting the German rear guards on the line of Auzigny-Villequiere-Aumont.

On the Aisne river to the east of Vailly the statement says the Germans are in fighting contact with the enemy.

DYNAMITE IS DISCOVERED IN LAKE FREIGHTER

(Associated Press Telegram)
Toledo, Sept. 7.—Several sticks of dynamite enough to blow the ship to bits, were discovered this morning in the hold of the bulk freighter "Munster," at the Toledo docks.

The boat was loading coal, for an upper lake port. The dynamite, which had been in the hold for some time, was discovered by the crew. The ship was stopped and the ship warped with great care, around into a slip back of the dock.

The coal is being unloaded slowly, and carefully, by hand. Dock officials were notified of the discovery, but admitted that a stick of dynamite had been in the hold for some time, and that it was mixed with the coal. Custom house officials were notified immediately and a federal investigation will follow.

BAVARIAN AND SILESIAN TROOPS ARE DESERTING

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, Sept. 7.—General demonstration of the German population and widespread and growing disaffection in the German army, accompanied by mutiny and desertions are described in a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from its Rotterdam correspondent, under date of Thursday. The correspondent says that information reaching him is so sensational as to inspire skepticism, but declares that he has received corroboration from authoritative sources which established the authenticity of the information beyond a doubt. He asserts that the German army is filled with despondency and seething with mutinous spirit and that alarming outbreaks have occurred in several units, principally Bavarian and Silesian. One incident on the Arras front terminated in a whole Bavarian division being disbanded and transported to Bavaria, where it was placed in a prison camp and the mutinies resulted in nearly a hundred of its men being executed.

A huge number of desertions are occurring, the correspondent says, and it is estimated that there are more than twenty thousand deserters in Berlin alone. Large numbers are scattered throughout the country and the authorities are having the greatest difficulty in trailing deserters, owing to the connivance of the working classes. Nevertheless, hundreds have been arrested and generally these have been sent to prison for 15 years imprisonment. A great number of imprisoned deserters are being released and sent back to the ranks.

Disobedience and defiance of officers in common at the front, according to the correspondent's information, and a similar spirit is shown in the munitions factories, where the workers deliberately are slowing up, with the result that the output has been seriously decreased.

FRENCH HAVE EFFECTED AN AVERAGE GAIN OF TWO MILES ON A TWENTY-MILE FRONT

St. Gobain Forest Presents a Difficult Task for the Army of General Mangin But French Have Taken Barisis and Begun to Press Upon St. Gobain Massif, Where Germans are Fighting Desperately.

(Compiled From Associated Press Dispatches.)
Accelerating the flight of the retreating Germans, the British, French and American armies gained important new ground last night and today along the entire front from the Aisne to the west of Cambrai.

In the northern part of the front the British have pushed forward on a front of more than 15 miles. They have driven in hard upon the left flank of the German line protecting Cambrai along the Canal Du Nord, occupying the greater portion of Havrincourt wood and capturing several additional towns to the southward.

South of the Somme the French are reported to have effected a gain to an average of two miles on a 20-mile front. They took the important town of Tergnier, only 2½ miles from the Hindenburg line at La Fere, and swept over several towns northward toward the British front in their progress.

It was beyond the Oise, however, that General Pétain's forces made their most important gains.

General Mangin's army has a difficult task before it here, where the Germans are established in the extensive forest of St. Gobain—the key point of their defensive system. The French have already pushed through the outlying lower forest of Coucy, however, and by taking Barisis have begun to press in upon the St. Gobain massif itself.

At points along this front the French apparently have reached ground beyond the former German defensive line. The official statement from Paris shows them on the edge of the upper forest of Coucy, also a part of the St. Gobain bastion defending Laon, and they are unofficially reported to have pushed into a big stretch of entirely new ground in this area. The Germans are desperately resisting here.

On the Aisne the French have taken the Condefort and Conde-Sur-Aisne, whence their movement threatened the Germans who are still clinging to the river to the east along the front held by the Americans. Thus it seems that there can hardly be more than a momentary halt by the enemy here and the reports from the American front indicate that the allied lines already are moving ahead, particularly to the east toward Rheims, where a movement is in progress to force the Germans out of the angle, south of the Aisne, where they are yet holding.

In Flanders the British have gained further ground, driving further toward the Messines ridge, in the vicinity of the town of Messines, and are edging eastward further south toward La Bassée.

As a whole through the campaign inaugurated by Marshal Foch, July 18, and in particular through the French-British drive during August, the German stroke of March 21 now has been virtually cancelled.

The Germans have been pushed from the territory they captured in their great offensive of March.

Along his old line the enemy now is facing an allied force that is under a unified command and that instead of some of the isolated and powerless German strokes, is on the aggressive and powerfully reinforced by the imposing mass of American forces that has been transported to France since the early spring.

BRITISH WELL EAST OF HANCOURT AND 9 MILES EAST OF SOMME

(Associated Press Telegram)
With the British Armies in France, Sept. 7.—(Noon)—British troops today advanced to the east of Hancourt and Lignemont, in the region northeast of Peronne. Other forces of Field Marshal Haig crossed the Nord-Fins road.

In the Lys salient the British, north of Erquinghem, are pushing toward the western bank of the river Lys. The British have advanced north of Hill 63 to Le Rossignol.

The British are well to the east of Hancourt and are more than nine miles to the east of the river Somme. Along the Cologne river Tincourt has been reached.

TERGNIER, THREE MILES WEST OF LA FERRE, TAKEN BY FRENCH

(Associated Press Telegram)
LONDON, Sept. 7.—(1 p. m.)—Allied progress on practically the whole battlefront, from Havrincourt north to the river Aisne, continued this morning with rather greater rapidity than had been expected.

Tergnier, three miles west of La Fere, has been captured by the French miles, and at some places to a depth of four miles. They occupied Tergnier troops.

The French have advanced on a 20-mile front to an average depth of two without opposition.

The French troops also reached the forest of Coucy and now are on a big stretch of entirely new ground.

The French line runs as follows: Aubigny, Dury, Ollezy, south of Fricourt-Failleul, Tergnier, and then west of Anizy, through Petit Basilly, Basseul-Aules, which the French also have captured, then to the west of Mont Des Singes, Launay mill, and west of Sancy to Celles, on the Aisne, where the line joins the old front.

BRITISH OPERATING NORTHEAST OF PERONNE—TAKE THREE TOWNS

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, Sept. 7.—British troops advancing last night on the front to the southeast and northeast of Peronne, captured the towns of Hancourt, Sorrel-Grand and Met-en-Couture, says today's war office announcement.

Fighting their way toward the left flank of the German positions along the Canal Du Nord from Havrincourt northward, the British penetrated the western part of Havrincourt wood, taking prisoners as they progressed.

In Flanders the British are pushing toward Messines, near the southern end of the Messines ridge, and they advanced their lines last night a short distance in the direction of the town.

North of La Bassée canal, on the Flanders front, British patrols made headway in the evening in the vicinity of Canteluez and Violaines.

The text of the statement reads:
"Our troops made further progress yesterday evening and last night, east and northeast of Peronne, and have taken Hancourt, Sorrel-Grand and Met-en-Couture. North of the last-named village we have penetrated the western portion of Havrincourt wood. We have taken a number of prisoners."
"North of the La Bassée canal our patrols gained ground in the German positions about Canteluez and Violaines. Further north we carried out a successful minor operation yesterday evening between Hill 63 and Waiverghem, as a result of which we captured 50 prisoners and advanced our line a short distance in the direction of Messines."

EAST OF HAM FRENCH OCCUPY TOWNS OF DURY AND OLLEZY

(Associated Press Telegram)
Paris, Sept. 7.—On the front between the Somme and the Oise, the French continued to press forward last night, overcoming the resistance of the German rear guard, according to today's war office report.

Pushing east of Ham, French troops have occupied the towns of Dury and Ollezy—more than three miles beyond Ham.

North of the Aisne the French have made a further advance, winning the entire lower forest of Coucy. North of the Vesle, where American troops have been advancing, there is no change in the situation.

Barisis, north of the Aisne, was captured in heavy fighting. South of the river the French have taken Nanteuil-la-Fosse, Condefort and Conde-Sur-Aisne. The statement follows:
"Between the Somme and the Oise, French troops continued to make pro-from during the entire night, overcoming local resistance and forcing back the enemy rear guard.

Advancing on both sides of the Somme the French occupied Piton, Sammette-Eaucourt, Dury and Ollezy. Further south the French are holding Gagny and have reached the western edge of Genlis wood. North of the Oise, French troops are in Tergnier. They have pushed east of this village to the railway and canal. North of the Ailette the lower forest of Coucy is entirely in our possession as well as Barisis, which was captured in heavy fighting, notwithstanding the stubborn resistance of the enemy. North of Quinzy Bas, the French have passed beyond the villages of Auliers and Bassoles-Auliers. South of the Ailette, Nanteuil-La-Fosse, Condefort and Conser-Sur-Aisne are ours.

"There is no change north of the Vesle."

GERMANS FALL BACK BEFORE THE PRESSURE OF FRENCH AND AMERICANS

With the American Army on the Aisne front, Sept. 7.—(Noon)—The Germans fell back a short distance early today before the pressure of the French and Americans to the east of Reuillon at about the center of the line between Conde and Rheims.

GERMANS WITHDRAWING FROM VESLE VALLEY TO AMERICANS' RIGHT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

With the American Army on the Vesle front, Friday, Sept. 6.—Menaced by a salient increasing in danger, the Germans today began a withdrawal from the Vesle valley to the right of the Americans. On the west flank the Americans held firmly, while the French exerted sharp pressure on the rear but there has developed a situation considerably different from that of the past few days in the regions westward toward Soissons. The Germans fought more nearly in the spirit of their traditions but slowly this continued to give them leaving little doubt that the line from near Rheims to that now along the Aisne would be quickly straightened.

The struggle is being made to the American right and has placed them in a position where they are subject to heavy enfilade, especially by the artillery. Despite desperate resistance they swung their line forward to its junction the French where the most determined resistance was encountered.

More broken country offers better opportunities for defense and the Germans have taken advantage of every hillside and ravine in placing their artillery and machine guns. The Americans are forced to face a deadly barrage, while barriers of gas were raised in every ravine which they might advance. An equally destructive artillery response was made by the Americans, however, and the men already tired in previous engagements advanced slightly, driving out the machine gun nests one by one.

The Germans held their positions along a machine gun line stubbornly, many of them dying at their posts, but the total mortality was not great, since only machine gunners were left in the rear line. It is probable, however, that German losses were large as a result of the counter artillery fire. Some thirty prisoners were brought in today from that part of the sector on the American's right. Because of the better terrain the Germans can afford to retreat here more slowly and from their positions they can exact a higher price in return for their withdrawal. It is inevitable at the same time that they must pay dearly. The result is a foregone conclusion and the only question is that of the cost in men.

Today the Germans enfiladed the Americans, who on their part replied in kind and with interest, while the French supplemented their work with what must have been frightful consequences for the Germans.

The slowing down of the German retreat from the Aisne has enabled the Americans and French to bring up supplies and artillery and get into the line the full strength desired for forward positions. The Germans of course have the same opportunity to place their artillery in position with the result that artillery action today was enlivened and may be expected to increase until a new move toward the Chemin des Dames is made. That the Germans will establish themselves on that line there is almost no doubt.

This conclusion is reached from statements made by prisoners and substantiated by circumstances incident to the operations.

The Americans concluded today their movement across the plateau and down the slopes today the river. They were constantly made targets but the movement was accomplished with astonishing success, notwithstanding the Germans' intimate knowledge of the abandoned territory and their excellent opportunity for observation. French airplanes assigned to this front were remarkably daring and efficient in their operations.

FORCES BROUGHT UP BY AMERICANS AND THE FRENCH

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

With the American Army on the Aisne, Sept. 7.—(Morning).—Additional forces and supplies were brought up by the Americans and the French during fended. To look for victory here would seem too wild an expectation, but then who a month ago could even have expected to look for troops.

ARTILLERY FIRE IN WOEVRE REGION IS HEAVIER THAN FOR WEEKS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

With the American Troops in France Friday, Sept. 6.—The artillery fire on the American sector is the Woivre region was heavier today than it had been for weeks. In the Vosges, however, the firing activity decreased. The pilot and observer of a German airplane that was shot down by the French and fell within the American lines were captured today by American troops.

American patrols had a sharp encounter with an enemy ambushing party last night. Another enemy patrol approached the American wire but beat a hasty retreat when it was fired upon.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

With the American Army in France, Friday, Sept. 6.—German aviators scored two direct hits, Wednesday night, on the large "Red Cross" between the wings of the French-American hospital, southwest of Soissons. There was no casualties as the patients had been removed to nearby caves when the bombs began soon after dark. Eighteen bombs were dropped—two striking the Red Cross which is built of red in a great field of white. When the alarm was sounded the attention of attendants was turned to the wounded who were taken to shelter without aid, and there were several instances of slightly wounded patients assisting the attendants in carrying the seriously wounded to places of safety. The first bomb struck near a tent and two others struck the Red Cross.

Owing to the darkness, due to the extinguishing of all lights, there was great confusion, but not a single patient or attendant was injured. The hospital doctors related with pride the bravery of the women nurses and the number of instances where nurses went to and from the caves to the hospital beds during the raid to make sure that all of the patients were under shelter.

MORE 10 POUND SUGAR CERTIFICATES WILL BE ISSUED

Mayor H. A. Atherton today received word that he would probably receive a further distribution of sugar. About 50,000 pounds will be available, and will be distributed by the 10-pound certificates. They will be distributed the same as in the past, and the day on which they will be given out will be announced later.

Persons who have not yet received any of these certificates are asked not to wait until the last day when the supply is exhausted, but to come the first day for them.

PROHIBITION NOW TO TURN TO THE STOCKS AND BONDS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Sept. 7.—Plans for stranding hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of oil stock and other speculative securities which the government considers unnecessary in the war emergency and hindrances to sale of Liberty Bonds, were announced today by the capital issues committee. Within a few weeks the committee hopes to stop absolutely the sale of all stocks and bonds not previously submitted to the committee or its district agencies for examination and determine whether the issues could not better be postponed until after the war.

New Flour Rules

Columbus, Sept. 7.—The Food Administration announced today that under the new flour regulations which became effective September 1 retail grocers and others are no longer permitted to sell rolled oats, oatmeal, corn grits, corn starch, rice and hominy as substitutes in combination with wheat flour. These were permitted as substitutes under the old 50-50 rule, but can no longer be sold with wheat flour.

Where pure flour is sold, the substitutes that may be sold with it on the one-to-four basis are as follows: Kaffir flour, milo flour, fetterita flour and meals, rice flour, oat flour, peanut flour, bean flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, buckwheat flour. Rye flour also is a substitute to be sold on the basis of two pounds of rye flour with three pounds of wheat flour. Mixed flours containing 20 per cent of substitutes may be sold without the substitutes.

SUMMIT STATION FARMER DIES THIS MORNING

Mr. James Kennedy, a farmer living west of town, died this morning with tuberculosis of the throat. Funeral Sunday at 2 o'clock at the late residence. The body will be placed in the mausoleum at Reynoldsburg. The departed leaves a wife and one son.

REAL CROWD ATTENDS SERIES FOR FIRST TODAY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Chicago, Sept. 7.—With long lines forming in front of the ticket windows and approximately 2500 bleacherites in their seats at noon, indications were that the first crowd of real world's series magnitude would attend the third game this afternoon between the Chicago Nationals and Boston American league clubs.

Secretary Craighead of the Cubs said that at noon all the reserved seats had been sold, for the first time since the series opened.

Real interest was attributed partly to the Cub victory yesterday, leaving the series all square, and partly to the perfect weather with the added factor that Saturday is a half holiday in Chicago even for the essential industries.

Early estimates placed the size of the crowd at more than 35,000.

The batteries for today are: Chicago—Vaughn and Kilfiter; Boston—Mays and Schang.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Chicago, Sept. 7.—The curtain was to be lowered on baseball in Chicago for the duration of the war with the series of the world's series between the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago Cubs, who faced each other on even terms today, each team having scored one victory. Tonight the game will be played in Boston, where the remaining games of the championship series will be played.

With renewed confidence over their 3 to 1 victory yesterday, the Chicago National league champions went into today's game determined to add to their laurels, and Manager Fred Mitchell said he probably would send Hendrix in to face the Red Sox.

Manager Ed Barrow and his American league champions were equally confident.

"We are determined to return to Boston and start Monday's game with a two to one edge. There will be no said. The game is planned to assign Mays to the task of turning the tide against the Cubs.

Splendid pitching by Tyler in yesterday's game, the sharp fielding of his team mates and their attack on "Bulldog" Rush's offerings when hits counted made the Cubs favorites on the baseball radio today. This, with fair weather, was expected to bring out a record crowd here.

Saturday's half holiday was expected to greatly increase the attendance. The total attendance for the first two games was 28,314, which was approximately 8,000 more than attended the first game of the series here last year.

On the present basis of attendance, the amount of money to be donated to war charities will not exceed $20,000.

"I had hoped that we would be able to make baseball's contribution to war charities more than $20,000," said August Herrmann, chairman of the National Baseball Commission today.

"But judging from receipts of the first two games it is quite possible we shall not be able to touch the $20,000 mark."

"I look for capacity attendance in Boston, which may make up the difference."

Manager Barrow expects to keep Thomas, who is on furlough from the Great Lakes naval training station, at third base throughout the series. The probable batting order follows:

Boston—Hooper, rf.; Sheen, 2b.; Strunk, cf.; Whitman, 1b.; Adams, 3b.; Scott, ss.; Thomas, 3b.; Agnew, c.

Chicago—Flick, rf.; Hollister, 2b.; Mann, cf.; Baskett, cf.; Merkle, 1b.; Pick, 2b.; Dal, 3b.; Kilfiter, cf.; Hendrix, p.

Spide yesterday's prediction of fair weather today the sky was overcast in a threatening manner this morning, although no rain had fallen.

At 2 o'clock the sun was shining and the morning weather forecast issued at that time promised fair weather.

BOSTON TO HAVE BIG CROWD AT GAME MONDAY

Boston, Sept. 7.—A big crowd was expected for the first game of the world series at Fenway Park next Monday was predicted by Secretary Lawrence Gaver of the Boston American league baseball club as he looked at his statistics of morning mail today. It was the last chance to obtain reservations by mail and all the 1555 box seats have been disposed of.

GET YOURS NOW WHILE IT IS POSSIBLE—There is sure to be a shortage this winter. YOUR NEIGHBOR HAS ONE.

THE STOVE WHICH SAVES ONE-THIRD OF THE COAL AND MAKES ONE-THIRD MORE HEAT.

The United States Government laboratory tests show that soft coal contains within 6 per cent as much heating power as hard coal, and would be just as valuable if the gas could be burned.

In the ordinary heating stove the gas is not burned and most of the heat goes up the chimney in smoke.

IN THE MOORE'S AIR-TIGHT HEATER THE GAS AND SMOKE ARE BURNED UP, and one-third more heat is the result.

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED A CARLOAD OF THESE STOVES AND ARE BOOKING ORDERS NOW. GET YOURS NOW WHILE YOU HAVE THE CHANCE. THERE WILL NOT BE ENOUGH TO GO AROUND THIS WINTER. COME IN AND PICK YOURS OUT, PAY ON IT BY THE MONTH AND WHEN COLD WEATHER COMES YOU WILL BE READY.

Moore's Air-Tight Heater is a clean stove. Has a dust flue which carries all the fine ashes and dust up the chimney instead of out into the room when you shake the grate.

that they might not be able to continue their operations at all after such exhaustion.

At that time the food administration directed the cessation of further purchases of raw materials for malting.

After conference between the president and representatives of the fuel, food and railroad administration, and the war industries board, it has been determined that the further necessity of war industries for the whole fuel productive capacity of the country, the considerable drought, which has materially affected the supply of feeding stuff for net year, the strain upon transportation to handle necessary industries, the shortage of labor, caused by enlargement of the army operations, renders it necessary that brewing operations of all kinds should cease upon December 1 until further orders, and that no further unmalted grains be purchased for brewing purposes from this date. The food administration has been directed to issue the necessary regulations to this end.

In addition to the above these administrations wish to war the manufacturers of all beverages and mineral waters that for the same reasons there will be further curtailment in fuel for the manufacture of glass containers, tin plates, for cans of transportation, and of food products in such beverages.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION IS APPROVED BY SENATE.

Washington, Sept. 7.—The $12,000,000 emergency agricultural appropriation bill, with its rider for national prohibition from next July 1 until the American armies are demobilized after the end of the war, was passed by the senate without a roll call.

Before final passage of the measure, the senate voted, 45 to 5, to retain the prohibition rider. A final effort to postpone the effective date of the "dry" legislation to December 30, 1919, was defeated.

The bill now goes to the house, and, because of the many amendments inserted by the senate, it undoubtedly will be sent to conference. Prohibition leaders, however, expect the house to agree to the "dry" rider so that there will be no possibility of changes being made by the senate and house managers.

Senators voting against retaining the "dry" legislation in the bill were: Bridgeport of Connecticut, Garry of Rhode Island, Tholan of California, Fawcett of Ohio, Fawcett of Louisiana, and Underwood of Alabama, while it was announced that many members absent and paired favored the amendment.

As returned to the house the prohibition clause—a compromise effected last week by senate "wet" and "dry" leaders would stop the sale of all intoxicating beverage next June 30, except for export, medicinal, sacramental and other than beverage purposes, and would prohibit the manufacture after next May 1.

The compromise prohibition "rider" was regarded as the most important provision of the emergency agricultural bill. It is a substitute for that of Representative Randall of California, adopted by the house last May, prohibiting use of the bill's appropriations until the president should exercise his authority in the food control law to stop manufacture of beer and wine as well as whisky during the war, as a food conservation measure.

After passage of the bill the senate conferees all regarded friendly to the legislation—were appointed: Gore of Oklahoma, Smith of South Carolina, Smith of Georgia, Kenyon of Iowa, and France of Maryland.

It doesn't take familiarity to breed contempt where Germany is concerned.

The Kaiser As I Knew Him For Fourteen Years

By ARTHUR N. DAVIS, D. D. S.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

He had pointed out that America at that time had only 30,000 men in France and he believed that the U-boats would effectively prevent any great addition to our forces abroad, if, indeed, they ever left our shores.

"As a matter of fact, however," he added, "your countrymen would be very willing, no doubt, to fight for their country to protect it from invasion, but I don't believe you'll ever get many of them to leave home to fight abroad. America will really be a very small factor in the war, Davis!"

"Your majesty is underestimating the power of America!" I replied.

He turned to me indignantly, and in his most imperious manner exclaimed: "We underestimate no one! We know exactly what we are doing!"

How seriously he was mistaken in this respect has since been sufficiently proved.

No matter how gloomy the outlook for Germany, the kaiser seldom showed concern. It is true that whenever things were going wrong, as when the Russians in the early part of the war were sweeping everything before them in their advance on the Carpathians, he and the rest of the royal family, kept as far in the background as possible, whereas when the German cause was triumphant, as in the case of the offensive against Italy, he could not make himself too conspicuous at the front.

But even when Germany's adversity was greatest, the kaiser always put on a brave front. At such times I have seen him stop in the street, after leaving his office, and before the hundreds of people waiting outside to greet him, ostentatiously put a cigarette in his mouth and light it, that everyone might notice how steady his hand was and how little he was worried by the turn things were taking.

At the same time, on one or two occasions after the war started, I noticed that he acted differently when in the dental chair than had been his custom when everything was serene.

The kaiser once boasted to me that not a building was erected in Germany, not a bridge built, not a street opened, not a park laid out, but what the project was first submitted to him. He kept posted on everything that was going on, not only in Germany, but in the world at large, and, as far as he was able, he endeavored to have his finger in every development of world-wide importance. I cannot imagine that he was less interested in what his countrymen were doing in connection with the war than he was in their achievements in time of peace.

If he did not actually order the sinking of the Lusitania, therefore, I am convinced that he was thoroughly aware of the plan to blow it up and sanctioned it. That he could have averted it if he had been prompted to do so is clearly indicated by another incident which left a very deep impression upon me.

I was informed by one of the German aviators that plans had been made to drop gas bombs on London which contained a deadly gas which would penetrate the cellars of houses in which civilians were in the habit of hiding during air raids.

Shortly before this hideous idea was to be put into effect the papers announced that bombs of this character had been dropped by the allies on Baden-Baden, but that, fortunately, they had fallen in a clump of woods in the center of the town and had failed to explode, which had given the Germans an opportunity to take them apart and ascertain their nature.

The purpose of this announcement, of course, was to forestall the storm of condemnation which the Germans knew would follow their use of the bombs on London—a ruse which they had invariably employed whenever they contemplated some fresh violation of the rules of international law and the dictates of humanity.

It happened that one of my patients who resided in Baden-Baden called to see me the day after the bombs had been dropped on her town, and she told me all about it.

"The airplanes which dropped the bombs had been flying over the city all the morning," she declared. "We thought they were our own machines out for practice and paid no particular attention to them. Then they dropped the bombs and they landed in the woods, and we knew we had been attacked. What a dreadful thing for them to do!"

What a foolish thing for allied airplanes to do—to spend a whole morning studying the layout of the town and then to drop those deadly bombs on a clump of woods where they could not possibly hurt anyone, and how careless of the Germans not to molest them while they were engaged in their devilish work!

But the point I wanted to bring out was this: these gas bombs were never used on London!

"Just as every thing was in preparation for the raid," the officer told me regretfully, "we received orders direct from the kaiser to hold off—I saw his signature to the order. Of course, there was nothing for us to do but comply, but if we had had the kaiser there, I believe we would have strung him up by the neck! We still have those bombs, however, and you may be sure they will yet be used!"

For some unknown reason the kaiser stopped the use of those lethal gas bombs for the time being. Why didn't he move to save the women and children on the Lusitania?

When I went back to Berlin in the clared that the kaiser was a stumbling-block in the way of world peace. When I got back to Berlin I mentioned the fact to the kaiser, hoping to draw him out.

"Yes, I know exactly what Carnegie said at The Hague," he replied rather testily, "and I don't like the way he spoke at all. He referred to me as the 'war lord' and said I was standing in the way of world peace. Let him look at my record of twenty-five peaceful years on the throne! No, the surest means to maintain the peace of the world is my big army and navy! Other nations will think twice before going to war with us!" The fact that he had previously accepted 5,000,000 marks from Carnegie for the furtherance of universal peace didn't seem to occur to him.

And the world at large learned more or less of German intrigue and propaganda since the war, but it is not generally known that the same sort of thing was going on even more actively in time of peace. Countless measures, of the most subtle and insidious character, were taken to lull into a sense of false security the nations she intended eventually to attack and to inspire fear in or command the respect of nations which she hoped would remain neutral or might even be induced to throw in their lot with hers in the event of war.

In this phase of Germany's preparation for war, the kaiser took a leading part.

It is a fact, for instance, that practically every officer in the Chilean army is a German, and the kaiser has spared no pains to foster the friendship of the South American republics, commercially and diplomatically.

One of the South American ministers told me of an ex-president of Peru who had visited Berlin. This Peruvian had previously visited London and Paris and had received little or no official attention in either of those capitals. For reasons best known to himself, the kaiser decided to cater to this gentleman, and accordingly arranged an audience.

In the discussion which took place when they met, the kaiser displayed such a remarkable acquaintance with Peruvian affairs and the family history and political career of his visitor that the South American was stunned. When he returned home he carried with him a most exalted idea of the all-pervading wisdom of the German emperor. To what extent the kaiser had spent the midnight oil preparing for this interview I have no knowledge, but knowing the importance he placed upon making a favorable impression at all times I have a mental picture of his delving deeply into South American lore in preparation for his guest.

There is nothing dearer to the kaiser than caste and social distinction. Morganatic marriages were naturally abhorrent to him. Nevertheless, before Archduke Franz Ferdinand, the successor to the Austrian throne, was murdered, the kaiser not only recognized his morganatic wife, who was only a countess, but went out of his way to show her deference. He placed her at his right at all state functions which she attended. To bring Austria and Germany closer together, he was willing to waive one of his deep-rooted prejudices.

The significance of the kaiser's many visits to Italy, his presentation of a statue to Stockholm, his yachting excursions in Scandinavian waters, his flirtations with Turkey from his castle on the Island of Corfu, and similar acts of ingratitude, becomes quite apparent in the face of more recent developments, but his efforts to curry favor with America during all the years of peace which preceded the war were so much more elaborate that they deserve more than passing mention.

No more subtle piece of propaganda was ever conceived than the kaiser's plan of exchanging professors between the United States and Germany through the establishment of the Roosevelt and Harvard chairs at the University of Berlin and corresponding chairs at Harvard and other American universities. Ostensibly the purpose of the project was to foster good-will between the two nations. Actually, it was intended to Germanize Americans to such an extent that their co-operation might be relied upon in the event of war for which Germany was sedulously preparing.

It was believed that the exchange of professors would accomplish the German purpose in two ways: not only could the professors the kaiser sent to America be depended upon to sow German seed in American soil, but the American professors who were sent to Berlin, it was hoped, could be so inculcated with the German viewpoint that when they returned to their native land they would disseminate it among their associates and students.

Some time before the kaiser conceived the scheme of the Exchange Professors, he sent his brother, Prince Henry, to this country to draw the two nations closer together and to instill in the heart of every child born in America of German parents an abiding love for the fatherland.

Just before the war broke out, he was planning to send one of his sons here with the same object.

He told me of his project and asked me to which part of the United States I thought he ought to send the prince.

"That depends, your majesty," I replied, "upon the object of the visit. If the purpose is to meet American society, I would recommend such places as Newport in summer and Palm Beach in winter. To come in contact with our statesmen and diplomats, Washington would naturally be the most likely place to visit."

The kaiser thanked me for the information but did not enter into further details as to the object he had in mind or which son he had planned to send across.

It was to curry favor with America that the kaiser had his yacht Meteor built in our shipyards, and it is a fact that more American women were presented at the German court than those of any other nation.

When he presented a statue of Frederick the Great to this country, in McKinley's administration, it created a great stir in congress. What could be less appropriate, it was argued, than the statue of a monarch in the capital of a republic? The statue was not set up in McKinley's administration, but Roosevelt accepted it in the interest of diplomacy and had it erected in front of the Army building.

Seeing that his gift had had just the opposite effect to that intended, the kaiser reprimanded his ambassador for not having interpreted American sentiment more accurately.

A few days after the death of King Edward, Roosevelt arrived in Berlin. Despite the fact that all Europe was in mourning, the kaiser arranged the most elaborate military dress review ever given in honor of a private citizen to celebrate Roosevelt's visit. The review was held in the large military reservation near Berlin. More than 100,000 soldiers passed in review before the kaiser and his staff and their honored guest.

How far the kaiser would have gone in his attentions to Roosevelt had he not been in mourning it is impossible to say, but I don't believe he would have left anything undone to show his admiration for the American ex-president and to curry favor with this country.

But Roosevelt was not the only American to whom the kaiser made overtures. He was constantly inviting American millionaires to pay him yachting visits at Kiel or wherever else he happened to be.

He sat for a portrait by an American painter, which was exhibited with a large collection of other American works under the kaiser's auspices.

There was nothing that the kaiser did not do in his efforts to ingratiate himself with this country in the hope that he would reap his reward when the great war he was anticipating eventually broke out.

Taken individually, these various incidents seem trivial enough, but I have every reason to know that the kaiser attached considerable importance to them. I know that there was a good deal of chagrin in the trades he delivered to me against America for her part in supplying munitions to the allies—chagrin at the thought that the seed he had sown in America had failed to bring forth better fruit.

When we finally entered the war and he realized that all his carefully nurtured plans of years had availed him naught, he could not restrain his bitterness nor conceal his disappointment.

"All my efforts to show my friendship for America—exchanging professors with your colleges, sending my brother in your country, all—all for nothing!" he exclaimed, disgustedly, after we had entered the war.

On another occasion he showed even more clearly how far America had fallen short of his expectations:

"What has become of those rich Americans who used to visit me with their yachts at Kiel and come to my entertainments in Berlin?" he asked, sarcastically. "Now that we have England involved, why aren't they utilizing the opportunity to serve and to make their own country great? Do they think I put myself out to entertain them because I loved them? I am disgusted with the whole Anglo-Saxon race!"

The kaiser couldn't understand why the United States did not seize both Canada and Mexico. Apparently, from the way he talked from time to time, if he had been sitting in the White House he would have grabbed the entire Western Hemisphere.

That the kaiser followed American politics very closely, especially after the war broke out, was very natural. The fact that there was a great German-American vote in this country was not overlooked in Potsdam, and I haven't the slightest doubt the kaiser imagined that he could exert considerable influence in our elections through his emissaries in this country.

I returned to Berlin late in October of that year. Within a day or two after my arrival I received a telephone message from the Reichskanzler von Bethmann-Hollweg to the effect that the kaiser had sent him word of my return and that he would like me to call at his palace either that noon or at four p. m.

I was ushered into a very large room in the corner of which was a business-like looking flat-topped desk, but which was otherwise elaborately furnished. The reichskanzler, a tall, broad-shouldered, handsome specimen of a man, came over to me and, putting his arm in mine, walked me to a seat beside the desk. He asked me what I would smoke, and upon my taking a cigarette, he did likewise.

"The kaiser's been telling me, doctor," he said, "of your recent visit to America, and I would like to ask you a few questions."

I said that I was always glad to talk of America. Indeed, I was particularly glad of the opportunity to speak with the prime minister of Germany at that time.

Then followed a bewildering succession of questions, the purpose of which was not at all clear to me. We had a peculiar conversation—half in German, half in English. The reichskanzler did not speak English particularly well.

"How are things in America?" he asked. "Did you have any opportunity to gauge the political situation? Who do you think will be the next president? Do you think that Americans are opposed to peace because that would end their chance to make money out of the war? Are your people so mercenary that they would like to see the war prolonged for the sake of the money they can make out of it?"

"No, your excellency," I replied, "you are quite wrong if you imagine that my countrymen would like to prolong the war for the sake of war-profits. That is very far from being the case. On the contrary, the country at large is anxious for peace."

"Don't forget your people are making a lot of money out of this war," the reichskanzler persisted. "They are becoming very rich. They will soon have all the gold in the world. Putting an end to the war would to a great extent end American opportunities for making money on this enormous scale."

"That may be all true," I replied, "but fortunately my countrymen think more of the blessings of peace and liberty than they do of war and profits, and the sooner peace can be brought about on a basis which will have some assurance of permanency the better we will like it."

"Wilson has the greatest opportunity ever presented to a man to make his name immortal—by bringing about peace in the world," he went on. "We feel now that he is not our friend, but friendly to the allies, but nevertheless he may be able to see that if this war is prolonged indefinitely it will mean the destruction of all the nations involved in it. Do you think there is any possibility of America entering the war?"

"That, of course, will depend, your excellency," I answered, "upon developments. I don't believe my country is anxious to fight, but I'm quite sure that nothing in the world will keep us out of it if our rights as a neutral nation are not respected."

"We certainly don't like the way Hughes has been talking on the stump," declared the reichskanzler. "Did you hear any of his speeches or any of Wilson's?"

I said I had had no opportunity to hear any of the campaign speeches, but that I had followed them in the newspapers.

"Well, did you gather from what you read that the American people want to see peace in Europe, or do they want the war to go on so they can continue to make fortunes out of it?"

Again I replied that I was certain our country would never be influenced by such sordid considerations as were implied in the reichskanzler's question, but that if the right kind of peace could be brought about the whole country would eagerly embrace it.

The subject of the U-boat campaign was never mentioned and it was not until several months later when the submarine warfare was started again on a greater scale than ever that I realized that the whole purpose of this interview was to ascertain if they could, without telling me their intentions, who was the candidate, Hughes or Wilson, who would be least dangerous to them if more American vessels were sunk in the ruthless submarine campaign they were then contemplating.

The election was drawing close; it was necessary to notify Von Bernstorff of Potsdam's preference; the kaiser believed that perhaps he held the deciding ballot in his hand in the shape of the German-American vote and he didn't know how to cast it. Hence the eagerness with which they interrogated me upon my return from the "front."

The interview with the reichskanzler and the fact that it was instigated by the kaiser indicated to me that America occupied a most important place in the kaiser's plans. When, a few months later, we declared war against Germany, however, all the kaiser's planning and plotting of years collapsed. The edifice he had been so confidently erecting came crashing to the ground because it was built upon a false foundation. How elementary was his expectation that his efforts to win the friendship of the United States in time of peace could avail him anything in the face of his barbaric methods of making war!

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

A Joint Letter.
Editor of The Advocate—We wish to acknowledge the receipt of our service medals and our very deep appreciation of the same. They are very beautiful and their purpose is fulfilled in serving as a constant reminder that the people of Newark and of Licking county are standing squarely behind us.
The Newark men were placed in the sixth company while we are located in the fifth company. They are with the Holmes county men, while we are with the men from Jefferson county. We are all enjoying camp life and hope to be soon on our way over there. Assuring you that we are very grateful for the medals and all that it stands for,
we remain, yours respectfully,
Wm. M. Locke
Leslie B. Holton
David Laughley
Robert P. Nixon
Robert Wilson Irwin
Fred Lothes.

Letter From France.
Editor of The Advocate—I received the medal which you sent me and I am glad to hear that the people of Old Licking for the same. I am sure that is what the boys say, all that have seen it. They say we didn't get anything like that. Well Licking county has got it on some of them at least. I guess I will close thanking all of you again. I remain yours truly,
PVT. LOEL D. McMANNIS,
Co. M, 331st Inf., N. A., American E. F.
A. P. O. 162. This letter was written somewhere in France, Aug. 18.)

The fool takes things as they come,
the wise man grabs them as they go.

DIRECTING JEWISH WAR CHARITY WORK

Mrs. Abram Simon.
Mrs. Abram Simon is national president of the Federation of Temple Sisterhood. She is the wife of Rabbi Simon and is one of the most active field workers of the Jewish welfare board. She is now in New York to assist in the organization of Jewish units for overseas work. Her husband has just returned from a tour of the training camps and will go to France soon as a representative of the American Red Cross for home communications.

COLLEGE GIRLS GIVE VACATION DAYS TO UNCLE SAM

Man Power Short, They Harvest Crops &amp; Can Them too

Olin Templin, U. S. Food Administration, Washington, D. C., Will Tell Any College Girl How She Can Enlist as a Volunteer.

Before the war, the average college girl's definition of a vacation was a time of complete rest from brain work and the recipe for enjoying it was one hammock, one book of fiction, and one large plate of fudge, all surrounded by cool breezes, blue sky and permeated with an atmosphere of utter irresponsibility.

Today, when there is such a thing as a WAR on hand, the definition is strangely altered. Ask any Volunteer College Worker and you'll find out that her interpretation of the word "vacation" now is—Intense application to some sort of work that will help to win the war. The incentive for enjoying that work is the prospect of winning a Food Administration certificate from the college she is attending and being given a job at harvesting crops or canning or preserving or teaching others to do so.

The hammock and the fudge and the soft breezes?
The hammocks are all swinging to the motion of the water on war ships, transports and cruisers; the fudge, isn't eaten at all, because there is a sugar shortage; and the soft breeze is something like the hot breath from a steaming kitchen where the Volunteer College Workers do her bit over a big kettle of boiling vegetables.

One of the main reasons why the absence of millions of young men serving the colors has not crippled American industry is that the College Volunteer Workers, organized in every state in the Union, and comprising groups of girls from almost every woman's school and college in the country, have come to the aid of Uncle Sam. They have gone, heart and soul, into the work not only of the Red Cross but of the Food Administration and almost every other department of the government.

These young women have dedicated themselves to their country no less than the boys who are fighting over in France today.

CAMP SHERMAN NOTES

Camp Sherman, Cinchottee, Sept. 7.—
Camp Sherman's motor transport outfit, commanded by First Lieut. G. C. Martindale, soon will be officially separated from the quartermaster's corps, according to information given yesterday.
Men in this branch of the service will discard the yellow hit cord of the quartermaster's department, likewise the crossed key and sword collar ornament. A large letter "Q" will be used as a collar ornament. Officers here do not know what hit cord will be used in the new department.

It is pointed out that the war department is severing the motor transport service from the quartermaster's department, following the British and French governments in the move. Those governments placed motor transport service under a separate head a year ago.
The promotion of First Lieutenants
Allen S. Nicholson, Cleveland, James W.
Wadsworth, S. C. he arrived at his home here after a tour of duty in France, to a temporary assignment. He was charged for physical disability. He was identified with the Ohio National Guard for 20 years. He is formerly prosecuting attorney of Fairfield county.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John F. Hartshorn.
Although she had been in failing health the death of Mrs. John F.
Hartshorn, a widow, occurred at 11 o'clock Friday evening came as a great shock to the members of the family.
Mrs. Hartshorn had been suffering with a heart affection and death resulted from the ailment.

Elita Eugenia McMillen was born in the house in West Main street, adjoining her present home at 40 West Main street. She was united in marriage to John F. Hartshorn, being west of the city, and two sisters, Henry Davis of Hoover street, and Mrs. Henry Gal-lock of West Main street.
Mrs. Hartshorn was a faithful and devoted member of the First Presbyterian church. The funeral services will be held at the Hartshorn home, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and in-

GRANVILLE

(Special to Advocate.)
Granville, Sept. 7.—Denison University will open next week under vastly changed conditions, and it remains to be proved how Granville residents will enjoy the experience of living so near a cantonment on a small scale. Most people, however, are heartily in sympathy with all the plans so far as made known. Special preparations are being made to house the unusually large number of students expected.

Mrs. A. K. Herrick, the incoming president of the Travelers' club, requests active members to assemble Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Battist church for a special business meeting.

Letters have been received from Russell Griffith, who is with Field Hospital Unit at the front, stating that he is in the best of condition. He is driving a Packard truck and is too busy to get gloomy. Besides the "day's work" he finds time to help "entertain" and is developing all his talent along historic lines, in order to keep the boys cheerful.

Miss Margaret Colwell arrived today from Boothbay Harbor, Me., where the family have been spending the summer.
She will enter Denison for her senior year. Miss Emily Colwell, who has been assistant in the State Library at Columbus, has resigned to accept a government position in Washington, D. C.
Lieut. W. A. Chamberlin, who is stationed at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., arrived in Granville Friday evening to enjoy with his family his first furlough since his enlistment.

Mrs. O. M. Ellison of La Moure, N.
D., formerly Miss Anna Barrett, will arrive today for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Barrett, corner Mulberry and College streets.

The birthday anniversary of Mrs.
Sarah Myers was delightfully observed by her neighbors, Mrs. B. F. Griffith and daughters, who gave a charmingly appointed dinner at their home in North Main street, Thursday, in honor of the occasion.

Robert Wilkinson, formerly a Denson student, who enlisted and went to Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala., is now in France, where he has been made a corporal in the 154th P. A. He writes cheerful letters to his sister, Mrs. Russell Griffith.

Mrs. Helen A. Rose, who has been quite ill for the past month at her home in South Pearl street, is slowly improving.

The following corps of district school teachers will begin their duties Monday, Sept. 9: No. 1, Hitt district, Miss Helen Cook; No. 2, Showman, Miss Orpha Brown; No. 3, Galesburg, Miss Mary Williams; No. 4, Everett district,
Miss Emma McClain; No. 5, Burg street, Miss Sylvia Crooks; No. 6, North street, Miss Marie Young; No. 7, Welsh Hills, Miss Mrs. Bishop; Nos. 2 and 5 will be closed on account of required daily attendance.

In the Granville Public school the following teachers have been secured:
Miss Mabel Draper, Miss Detwiler, Miss
Anna Ackley, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Columbus, Miss Virginia Trumper of Linden, Ky. High school: Miss Jane Williams, Miss Lora Wright, Miss Edna
Duffey, Miss Alia Walker of Toledo, Indiana, Miss Mary E. Smith, A. B. Conklin, superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. White returned this week from a pleasant sojourn in their cottage at Lake Brevoort, Mich. They are enthusiastic in praise of the patriotism of the little Swedish settlement.

Mrs. Robert Bell writes from Long Island that the response of New York and Long Island to the request of the government for a "Gasless Sunday" was far beyond anything that could have been imagined. It really thrilled one on a perfectly beautiful Sunday afternoon to see stretch after stretch of empty roadways along Hudson avenue and the Merrick road, usually so congested as empty as any of them—and to realize the spirit of patriotism that underlay it all. On their trip by trolley to a neighboring town there were less than a dozen automobiles. In Chicago on Sunday, J. S.
Edwards wrote that he saw but one automobile and that one not running.

Rev. John T. Newell of Greenfield, O., will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church this Sunday morning, and will preach for the union service in the Methodist church at 7:30.
Dr. Millard Brelsford, pastor of the Baptist church will preach in the morning on "The Next Fifty Years in the

UNABLE TO FIND PEOPLE TO FILL 27,000 POSITIONS

(Associated Press Telegram.)
Columbus, Sept. 7.—Though the federal employment service in Ohio filled 40,000 jobs during August, it was unable to find workers to fill 27,000 positions which employers offered. Employers made requests for 56,879 employees and 39,099 were filled. The employment service placed 9959 women workers out of a total of 14,539 who applied for positions.

SECOND MAIL AVIATOR MAKES CHICAGO TODAY

(Associated Press Telegram.)
Chicago, Sept. 7.—Edward V. Gardner, pilot of the second airplane with mail from New York arrived at Grant Park at 7:40 a. m. He spent last night at Westerville, Ind., conditions being unfavorable for night flying. The flight from Westerville to Chicago was made within an hour, Gardner making no effort at speed.

Gardner left New York Thursday, several hours after Max Miller, who arrived here with mail last night.

AMUSEMENTS

AUDITORIUM.

"The Girl Without a Chance."

The Auditorium offers today the first stage-speaking dramatic show of the season in "The Girl Without a Chance," written by Whitney Collins. The play deals with the struggles of a poor working girl who comes to an American city and encounters those vultures who prey upon innocent creatures, and is a gripping story well told and acted by a clever company. Robert Sherman, who sends this production to Newark, is a well-known Chicago producer who has made a fortune with this play, for capacity crowds were the rule in nearly every city visited last season. This season an entire new company, new equipment, etc., make it one of the really good things to be seen this season. As attractions are liable to be scarce the coming season, those who love the speaking play should make every endeavor to attend this performance this evening, where laughs, thrills, delight and sensations are promised. The advance sale is quite large. A matinee is being given this afternoon.

Sunday's Program.

The Auditorium Sunday offers to amusement seekers another triple program as mentioned below. Alice Brady, Select Picture star, is the headliner and is screened in a photoplay written by Marie Eve and dramatized by Paul West, called "The Death Dance." The story deals with Flora, a dancing girl (Miss Brady) about whom, because his wife is receiving the honors to Morland, the dancer, the dancer at Flora's cafe, Maitland makes a wager, that he of British Guiana, South America, can only be reached by a dangerous canoe trip along the Potomac through rapids and cataracts, dense jungles and difficult portages. Kaieteur Falls is five times as high as Niagara, which gives some idea of the whirlpool beneath. The story of the falls is told in the fall native corral, or canoe, calls for the utmost skill and daring of the Guiana native boatmen. The Howe cameramen have filmed this shooting of the Kaieteur rapids and the effect of dashing through the whirlpool rapids at the speed of an express train, the story half submerging the corral, is sensational in the extreme. The usual amusing Howe animated caricatures and patriotic film novelties will round out the new program. Seats now on sale.

Her Regiment.

Local theatregoers will be interested in the news that "Her Regiment," the Knickerbocker theatre, New York, musical comedy success will have its local premier at the Auditorium theatre at an early date, with the original cast as seen for a season's run on Broadway.

"Love Letters"

As Eileen Harland, young wife of a District Attorney, Dorothy Dalton in her next picture, "Love Letters," by Shannon Fife, makes a determined struggle for her husband's confidence. In her girlhood she had written indiscreet letters to Raymond, Moreland, who poses as a teacher of erotic eastern creeds, but is in reality a cad and can win Flora in two months, but when he meets her becomes honestly interested in her career and forgets the compact. He is killed in an auto accident and Flora becomes Borecky's dance partner in the Death Dance, which he has originated and in which she, as a former sweetheart, is stabbed by Borecky.

Cynthia Matland grows tired of Borecky and turns her attention to Philip Standish. When she has made her progress into his affections, she takes him to the cafe where her cast-off lover, Borecky, is to dance. Here Philip sees and falls in love with Flora. Matters rapidly progress, and shortly Flora and Philip are married. Cynthia, deserted, plans revenge.

Going to Borecky she goads him into a jealous rage against the girl whom he has gradually learned to really love. Rather than lose her to another man, he vows to stab Flora in the dance, expecting to make it appear an accident. Cynthia is present the night appointed for the tragedy, but Philip, sitting very near, understands the look of murder on Borecky's face and rescues his sweetheart. Then, before he can prevent, the man turns the weapon upon himself. The scenery, stage settings, costumes, etc., are elaborate and the following players assist Miss Brady in the production: H. E. Herbert, Helen Montrose, Robert Cain, Mahlen Hamilton, Charles Slattery, Nadia Gary, etc. The added features are well worth seeing also, for Charlie Chaplin in a comedy new to Newark, "A Honeymoon Spouse," a two-reel laugh-making story, that is sure to send you away pleased. The Incomparable Orchestra under the direction of Frank Reynolds, has been augmented by the addition of several players, one being Paul Hawkins, saxophone soloist, who has just returned from a concert tour in the east. There will be no advance in prices for this engagement.

Howe's Pictures.

Lyman H. Howe's cameramen have done many daring things to obtain thrills for the famous Howe Travel Festivals, but the most daring of the trip through the fastest rapids in the world is one of their most sensational stunts. This picture, "A Canoe Trip to Kaieteur Falls," is one of the features of the new Howe Travel Festival, which comes to the Auditorium theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Kaieteur Falls, located in the depths of a villain of the deepest dye. Next Thursday and Friday at the Auditorium.

LYRIC.

Sunday.

The Famous Cheerup Quartette will give a Sunday concert singing some of the most popular songs of the day, together with a fine program of songs. The famous child actress, Baby Marie Osborne, in "The Little Patriot," a Gold Rooster Pathe photoplay, in five parts, a picture that will please both old and young. Tomorrow will see the third episode of America's Serial Success, "The Eagle's Eye," with those two well-known screen stars, King Bagget and Marguerite Snow, and there will be a very funny Nester comedy picture that will please all.

ALHAMBRA.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Unusual interest will be taken in the showing of "The Accidental Honeymoon" at the Alhambra theatre Sunday, for it is the last picture in which Captain Robert Warwick appeared before he heard the call of the flag and went to the fighting front in France to serve in the interest of Uncle Sam.

"The Accidental Honeymoon" is a Harry Rait production and was directed by Leonore Perret. Young romance is the dominating influence of the story. There is much bright comedy, some unique and amusing situations and a steady flow of interesting incidents leading up to a fixed purpose. Captain Warwick enacts the role of a young aviator who is despondent and tired of life until a certain young girl dawns on his vision. The girl is portrayed by Elaine Hammerstein, Captain Warwick's leading woman in several other important pictures.

Wednesday and Thursday.

One of the members of Virginia Pearson's company that produced "The Lion," which will be shown at the Alhambra, Wednesday and Thursday, was Liane Held Carrera, daughter of Anna Held, the famous French singer and comedienne.

Miss Carrera has been at her mother's side every moment for weeks, until at last the doctor warned her that unless she did something to take her mind from her mother's illness, she, too, would break down. So Miss Carrera went into the films, and obtained a part in Miss Pearson's company.

THE LODGES

I. O. O. F.

Canton Olive, No. 90 will meet next Wednesday, September 11. Lodge will open at 7:30 sharp as we will turn the room over to the degree team of the Encampment. It is hoped that a good large number will be present as we will need every man there.

Mt. Olive Encampment, No. 12. There will be a special meeting of the degree teams of the Encampment on next Wednesday, Sept. 11, at 8:30 p. m. Immediately after the Canton meeting for the reorganization of the teams, with rehearsal. Patriarchs we want every man who attended the meeting last Thursday night, and as many more as can possibly be present. We have twelve candidates so far and expect still more. The Patriarchal Degree will be conferred September 26th on the next regular meeting, and we mean to have this work right, this concerns every member and not just a few, so every body get busy.

Newark Lodge, No. 622. Last Monday evening there was a fairly good attendance at Newark Lodge. One of our candidates not being able to be present the Initiatory degree was postponed until next Monday, September 9. All members of the team will take notice and be on hand. Every Oddfellow will always find a welcome at Newark lodge each Monday evening. Last Monday evening a committee was appointed to prepare a suitable program for a "Home coming and get-together" meeting for Monday, October 7. We hope every member of Newark Lodge will make a note of this date and then be present and bring some other Oddfellow with him.

VARY THE POULTRY RATION. In feeding grain to poultry the aim of the feeder should be to give a varied menu of kind of grain alone is best. Variety may be secured by mixing the grains or by feeding the different kinds of grain on different days. This variety is in accordance with nature. When on free range the fowls obtain a little of several different kinds of feed. Grain should not be made the sole feed, except in the fattening pen, for then fat and not eggs is the usual result.
